

The following lists are intended for information purposes only and are not exhaustive. They are consultants that we are aware of that have recent experience completing municipal heritage surveys, inventories, and management plans. It is not a recommendation or endorsement of the individual consultant's work. This list is designed to assist municipal staff in preparing Requests for Proposals for heritage planning projects. These professionals have a range of expertise and skills. Generally, heritage consultants are experienced in the fields of architecture, planning, and history. All proposals for heritage projects should be carefully evaluated by a municipality before entering into a contract with a consultant. All municipalities are encouraged to complete reference checks.

Municipal Heritage Survey

Heritage surveys are conducted to help municipalities identify, document and understand potential historic sites. A survey establishes a base of knowledge that can be used to identify and evaluate significant resources and, eventually, to formally recognize important historic sites.

Municipal Heritage Management Planning

A municipal heritage management plan could help municipalities integrate heritage initiatives into other community plans and programs, plan heritage initiatives that are appropriate to municipal goals and resources, determine ways to protect historic places, and/or develop conservation incentive programs. Heritage planning could result in strategic plans, action plans, or project-specific plans.
